

CAPT KIRKPATRICK LEADS MEN AFTER BOMB PLOTTER

CAMDEN, April 14.—Company H, under the command of Captain J. Bayard Kirkpatrick, is playing an important part in the protecting of this city. The New Brunswick boys are some of the finest in the battalion stationed at Camden, and have been detailed to guard points of importance. It was only Thursday evening when residents in the vicinity of Newton avenue and the elevation tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad had a real fright, when a suspect was discovered digging a hole, presumably to plant a stick of dynamite to blow up a powder train from Carney's Point. Major Walter A. Morton, of the Second Regiment, was notified, and he rushed the detail of guardsmen to the border street under the command of Captain J. Bayard Kirkpatrick. The New Brunswick boys mobilized in a very few minutes, and a rigid investigation was made. Had the dynamite been planted the list of dead would probably have equalled that of the Eddystone catastrophe. One of Company H's men found a knife. The soldiers discovered a hole which had been freshly dug. The hole was dug under the girder a distance of four feet, which was long enough to admit and conceal a stick of dynamite. More than 10,000 additional National Guardsmen will in a few days be mustered into Federal service, according to the orders issued yesterday. These men will be used for police purposes, and still more regulations will be called. The explosions at the Eddystone plant and other incidents have seriously impressed officials, and it is their purpose to furnish adequate protection to all great munition plants, bridges, and other important public works. Governor Edge, following receipt of orders from the War Department, has ordered the mobilization of the Fourth Regiment of New Jersey, with headquarters at Jersey City. Members of this regiment will be detailed to guard duty at various points in New Jersey. This regiment saw service on the Mexican border last summer. Secretary Baker has announced that men now enlisting in the regular army and the National Guard would be taken in only for the period of war. To raise the army and the National Guard to war strength, a total of 517,863 volunteers will be needed, all of which are enlisted for the period of the war.

W. KUHLTHAU, JR., MILLTOWN MAYOR, DIES SUDDENLY (Continued from Page One) complications set in that hastened his departure from this world. Only yesterday the Mayor was able to sit on the porch of his home, getting some fresh air and was making all preparations to take an automobile trip to-day to Long Island to see his sister, he believing that the air in that section of the country might be an aid to his recovery. Later in the day his condition became more serious, however, and despite the best medical aid that could be obtained he was called to his reward. Mayor Kuhlthau was a man of sterling qualities whose presence would be greatly missed by his official colleagues and so many other friends in town, of New Brunswick and vicinity. He was 48 years of age. He leaves a wife, Mrs. Josephine Kuhlthau, a son, Russell; mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. William Kuhlthau, Sr., of Milltown; a brother, Charles Kuhlthau, of New Brunswick, and a sister, Mrs. Joseph M. DeHart, of Morris Park, L. I., to mourn their loss. The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon. Interment will take place in Van Liew Cemetery under the direction of Undertaker Quackenbush. William Kuhlthau, Jr., who was serving the last year of his second term as Mayor of Milltown, succeeded the late Conrad Richter as leading citizen of the town in 1914, which post he had faithfully fulfilled up to the time of his demise. Mr. Kuhlthau had always been interested in the welfare of Milltown, serving as a member of the first Borough Council, under the borough act; served two terms as president of the Board of Education and was still a member of that body; was a former president of the Board of Health; was among the organizers of the Milltown Building and Loan Association, and a director of that institution; was among the stockholders of the India Rubber Company, of Milltown; was a charter member and past officer of Wicakunk Tribe, No. 135, Improved Order of Red Men, as well as Rescue Council, No. 4, O. U. A. M., and served as secretary of Rescue Council for 16 years. He was a member of New Brunswick Lodge, No. 224, B. P. O. Elks, and of the German Reformed Church of this place. When the old Meyer Rubber Company was the only industry in Milltown he was employed there. Later he sought employment at the rubber factory in New Brunswick, where he remained for a number of years. Of late he had been identified with the firm of Kuhlthau & Lins, of New Brunswick. William Kuhlthau, Jr., had served the Republicans of Milltown as their county committeeman for a long time and he came to the rescue of the party by consenting to accept the mayoralty in 1914 when the political situation was very unique, the Republicans, the Democrats nor the Progressives at that time being enthusiastic over the honor of the labor attached with the mayoralty as the responsibility of the sewer and water problems which were in their early stages at that time would fall upon the Mayor and Council. In the capacity of county committeeman at that time, Mr. Kuhlthau being unable to secure any other candidate took the reins in his own hands by accepting the nomination, and under his administration the work which was planned by the late Conrad Richter and his subordinates was carried to a successful completion. Mr. Kuhlthau was a business partner of Henry D. Lins, conducting their business at 85-87 Dennis street, New Brunswick, under the firm name of Kuhlthau & Lins. While the Mayor accomplished a

AT THE BIJOU. Lovers of good clean moral dramas should not fail to see Pathe Gold Rooster play in five reels "Joy and the Dragon," featuring Baby Marie Osborne, the world's best child artist. The story in brief is as follows: Some fishermen find, lashed to a frail raft at the mercy of wind and wave, a sea survivor of a ship that hit a mine. "My name is Joy," she said, "Mama's joy—and Papa just fell in with the fishes and ain't back yet." The fishermen take Joy and the curious oriental casket clutched in her chubby hands to the Haven Orphanage. The institution proves to be a haven for other things than orphans, for its heads are a clever gang of crooks, who with criminal cleverness, have recognized an orphan asylum as the last place the police would suspect. Joy tells them the way her mother showed her how to punch the dragon's eye on the casket and open a drawer with the "pretty stones." The secret drawer reveals a small fortune in gems to the crook's eyes. Joy, to keep from telling others, is kept a prisoner, but manages to escape in a large bakery's bread hamper about to be shipped. Suffering only minor bumps caused by the train's jolts, she arrives in a mining camp. There, she brings a ray of sunshine into the life of a man struggling to forget his past and start his life anew, who adopts her and eventually through the child's influence returns to his home where a welcome and forgiveness await him. Later, he finds "the stones" and recovering them, breaks up the gang, Joy rewarding her adopted daddy by faithfully promising him "When I get big—I'll be your best sweetheart." The comedies include "Deep Dyed Villany," and a single reel of "Lonesome Luke." Monday, Ivan Sawyer and Stewart Holmes "In Love's Law," and a Fox Comedy in two reels with Lou Mix, entitled "Hearts and Saddles." THE SUNDAY TIMES gets all the news first. Try a Home News Want Ad.
