

ANK ROBBERS GET LAW'S LIMIT IN A FEW HOURS

entarily and had served with the 17th Division in France. Watson, he said, had served in the navy, and had been stationed off the French coast for over a year.

Mr. Coan declared that Voorhees tried to go straight after his charge from the army and had gained a position at Camp Harbord, when some thefts occurred near there, however, said his counsel, attempts were made to place the blame on him and things were made so uncomfortable for him that he went New York.

Voorhees was unable to get work here, Mr. Coan said, and he few days had company, which resulted in an unduly long stay at the home with Watson, who was serving a term at New Bedford, Mass., with Voorhees last July when they broke up together.

Mr. Coan urged clemency in view of the fact that the men had pleaded guilty, without putting the county to the expense of a trial.

Disgrace to Uniform There are certain crimes, caused by a sudden temptation, in which a previous war record can be considered in extenuation of the offense," said Judge Daly. "But in a deliberate crime like this it simply adds another crime to their account, thus disgracing the uniform. There are too many men now who think that because they served during the war they are entitled to live without working, and they are a disgrace to the great majority of our glorious American boys who served."

He said that the court always takes into consideration the fact that a man pleads guilty and does not intend to perjure to his other crime, but that Voorhees had been given every chance before he was sent to State Prison the first time.

"Middlesex county has been remarkably free from crimes of this sort," he continued. "There has been only one burglary during my term on the bench and that was due largely to advertising the fact that this is not a safe county for criminals to ply their trade."

"I will not impose a fine as well as imprisonment on these men in view of their having pleaded guilty, but I can see no reason why I should not impose the limit sentence permitted by statute. The sentence of the law in such a case is that they be confined at hard labor in the State Prison for a term not exceeding five years and not less than four years and eight months."

Must Face Other Charges This sentence by no means disposes of the cases, however. There are eight other indictments pending against Voorhees, and a detainer will be placed against him at Trenton when his term expires. He was brought back here to face trial on the other charges.

He is also wanted in a number of other cities, and authorities there have been notified. Chief of Police Niely, of Plainfield, was present in court when the men were arraigned yesterday and stated that both are wanted in his city.

Prosecutor Joseph E. Strickland, complimented the posse of Milltown citizens on their fine work in capturing the two men in the attempted bank robbery. He said they had rendered a real service to the county and to the State.

The quick disposal of the cases was arranged by him, he said, as a warning to burglars and other criminals in these troublesome times that they will get short shrift in Middlesex county, and he made it clear that the sentences imposed yesterday are by no means the finish of the case.

He declared that if the men had pleaded guilty he had planned to call a special session of the grand jury today to indict them and to put the men on trial on Monday or Tuesday.

Voorhees and Watson were returned to the county jail at once and are being carefully watched, as the authorities are taking no chances on losing them. They will have to be held here until Friday and then will be taken at once to Trenton.

Voorhees denied in conversation with attendants at the county jail that he had anything to do with the robberies charged against him here and said that the Milltown robbery was the only local affair with which he had been connected. It was stated, however, that he had admitted a robbery in Boston.

He expressed himself as being well satisfied with his sentence and said that he intended to serve all the time against him and then try to live straight.

Hundreds Killed and Injured in Train Wreck

MRS. FRANK C. WALLOWER The many friends of Mrs. Mary Russert Wallower, wife of Frank C. Wallower of 112 Sargeant avenue, Joplin, Mo., will be shocked to learn of her death which occurred after a brief illness at her home in Joplin yesterday.

Girls' Vocational School Exhibit Proves a Success

The Middlesex County Girls' Vocational School on Guilden street was a very attractive spot to 150 friends of the institution last night when an exhibition of the work of the thirty-eight students was given.

The interior of the building was very Christmas with holiday decorations of red and green. Most inviting-looking tables were used to display the work which consisted of canned goods, jellies, preserves, pickles, cakes, puddings, candy.

Then there were dresses of every description, shirt waists, lingerie, boys' suits, blouses, middie, curtains, etc.

The students of the school made a special Christmas donation and with the money purchased enough material to make twenty-two dresses and bloomers of different colors. These will be presented to the girls of the Children's Industrial Home and cannot fail to delight the girls as they are the dearest of dresses and no two girls will have the same design or color, each dress having its own individual touch.

Following the exhibit, delicious refreshments were served by the students, all being concocted by themselves. It certainly was a worthwhile exhibition and Miss Carolyn Argast, the principal, and her assistants, Mrs. A. V. Ross and Miss Elizabeth Wallack, deserve the highest praise for their excellent training.

The school closed yesterday for the Xmas holiday. Judgment For $250 Awarded Against P. S.

Judge Freeman Woodbridge filed conclusions today in the District Court in the action brought jointly by Moses Moselowitz and Jacob Smilkstein against the Public Service Railway Company. The court awarded Moselowitz $200 and costs of suit. Smilkstein was allowed $50 and costs of suit.

The action was tried on July 3 and grew out of the collision of an automobile owned and driven by Moselowitz and a Public Service trolley. Moselowitz was driving the automobile out of the S. A. M. Garage on George street when he was struck by the trolley. Moselowitz's car was jammed against the car owned by Smilkstein which was standing opposite the S. A. M. garage. Both cars were badly damaged.

The collision took place on May 31, 1920. Fortunately Moselowitz escaped with minor injuries. He sustained damages to his car which was almost a wreck, as did Smilkstein. Attorney Edmund A. Hayes appeared at the trial of the case for Moselowitz and Smilkstein. C. Caffrey represented the Public Service.

The property damage amounted to about $19,000. The force of the explosion was felt all over the Lackawanna Valley.

WILSON IN FAVOR OF USUAL PROGRAM INAUGURATION DAY

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—President Wilson plans to accompany President-elect Harding from the White House to the capitol on March 4 and back again to the White House for luncheon as is the custom when the new executive is inaugurated.

Secretary Joseph Tumulty said Mr. Wilson had outlined his plans yesterday with regard to inauguration day. As is the custom, Mr. Harding will call at the White House and be received by the retiring executive. They then will ride down Pennsylvania avenue to the capitol where the president-elect will take the oath of office and deliver his inaugural address. The president and retiring executive will lead the usual parade down Pennsylvania avenue. The luncheon will then take place. Immediately afterward Mr. Wilson will retire to his new home on S street to take up life as a private citizen.

The continued improvement in health will make the carrying out of the plans possible even in the most intemperate weather. Mr. Tumulty said he found the President yesterday in better spirits than at any other time since he was taken ill a year ago. He said Mr. Wilson did not discuss the treaty of Versailles or indicate in any way what disposition he planned to make of it.

The President said in his talk with the secretary that he was not interested in writing memoirs for an autobiography as it was a form of literature that never greatly appealed to him. It has been understood that Mr. Wilson would take up the preparation of a history of the world war.

Little Girl's Appeal Meets Quick Response (By R. H. S.) Who said that all the kind hearted people in New Brunswick were to busy with their own Christmas plans to stop a moment to help a "stranger" within our gates? Hardly had the Home News left the press yesterday, carrying the appeal of a little girl for help to get her father work when replies began to come in.

One definite offer came in the form of result in giving the rather feeble father a steady job at a factory in New Brunswick. Meanwhile to those who want to help give the family a Merry Christmas day send what they like to the Home News office and it will be passed on.

The family, it may be stated, is not a charity case. It is just one of those families that might come to you or me. These people have a candy store and sometimes sell as little as one cent's worth a day. People just don't go in the store. The wife works all day mending and sewing but no one comes to buy her handwork. There are three children, the oldest being 12 years of age.

They came here four months ago from New York so as to give one of the children, a little boy who is sickly, a chance to have better air than the big city can supply. He is getting stronger every day. The father has no business, business is not only dull but dead. The father has walked the streets daily, looking for work and the mother has done all she can to help, but times are hard. The wife works all day mending and sewing but no one comes to buy her handwork. There are three children, the oldest being 12 years of age.

Charles Ray and Big School Act Tomorrow at the Opera House The last word in motion picture development will have been spoken when the latest Ince-Paramount production, "An Old Fashioned Boy", starring Charles Ray, is presented at the Opera House tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

"An Old Fashioned Boy" affords a typical country boy's role for Mr. Ray, while the situations are highly interesting. There are many laughs throughout the action. Ethel Shannon, a young scene debutante of charm, beauty and talent, plays opposite the star and heads one of the best supporting companies ever assembled for Mr. Ray.

The vaudeville acts include a big school act, nine crazy kids, with Bert Rollnick and Don Sherwood in "The Last Day of School." This is very funny.

Sam Lewis and Arthur Thornton have a comedy novelty, "The Great Lovers" that will be found bright and spicy.

Coretta and Lewis present an artistic song revue, giving some old songs in a new way. Lyle and Emerson offer a very amusing diversion, "A Hotel Happening."

A healthy baby girl has arrived to make more pleasant the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Hogarty of New Haven, Conn., formerly of this city. Mrs. Hogarty was Margaret C. Kelly, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. F. Kelly, and is well known here.

Mrs. Hogarty was at one time an employe of the Simplex Automobile Company in this city.
