

TO REPAVE UPPER
LIVINGSTON AVENUE

That Is Part of Plan of Trolley Extension—Suydam Street. People Want Proposed Pavement Extended on Their Street—Council to Act on Monday Night on Other Pavements.

The upper portion of Livingston avenue, which now has a ribbon macadam pavement in the center, is to be repaved from gutter to gutter after the trolley goes up that street. This plan was announced this morning by an official in a position to know the plans of the city fathers, and came out during a discussion of whether the trolley should go up the avenue in the center of the street or on the side.

The Home News recently pointed out that the ladies of the City Improvement Society object to the trolley going up the avenue in the center of the road, and that they will have a representative at the meeting of Common Council on May 9 to protest against the granting of a franchise which will give the middle of the road to the Public Service Corporation.

They point to the fact that the trolley tracks have so badly cut up Commercial avenue that the street is annoying to funeral processions, and that Livingston avenue has now been adopted as the funeral street and that it is not fair to cut this up also. The ladies suggest that the trolley tracks be laid at the side of the street.

A city official this morning declared that, while he had discussed the matter with the trolley people, he thought that they would rather go up the avenue on the side, as it would be cheaper for them to do so. They would not have to string their wires across the entire width of the street, but could erect single trolley poles with brackets.

But he held that the interests of the city demanded that the tracks be laid in the center of the road. The street is wide, he said, and there is plenty of room in the center of the street for the trolley and room on either side for wagon traffic. He declared that the residents of the street would never permit the tracks to be built along the side gutter, next to their properties. He considered such tracks dangerous. That portion of the city is to be built up wonderfully, he believes, and it would not be fair to the future residents to put trolley tracks in the gutter, endangering their lives every time they have occasion to go to the gutter.

He said that the trolley in the center of the street will give drivers an opportunity to keep to the right of the road. The city will pave the street from gutter to gutter, he said, as the street will become so important that there will be a public demand for it.

This matter will come up for a full discussion before the members of Common Council on Monday evening, July 9, when a public hearing will be given on the petition of the Elizabeth and Harrison River Street Railway Company for the right to extend its lines.

Suydam street residents, between Livingston and Lee avenues, do not want to be left out in the agitation for new streets, and a petition is being signed by property owners on that portion of the street asking the city to pave the street. This petition will be presented to Common Council at its meeting on Monday night next. It is expected. It is being liberally signed.

The people on Suydam street, from Livingston avenue to Codrington street, have had their petition in for some time, and on Monday bids will be called for for that portion of the street, unless it is decided to hold up the work and do both portions at the same time.

On Monday night bids will also be called for on the Somerset street, Harderburgh street and Prospect street paving jobs. This work is to be hurried through.

MONIGIN—McCORMICK.

John J. Monigin and Miss Agnes R. McCormick stood before the altar of St. Peter's church this morning and pledged their troth in the presence of a number of witnesses. When Monsignor O'Grady's blessing had descended upon them and they started down the long aisle which was the beginning of a much longer walk they were to take, hand in hand through life, there was not one of those witnesses but could feel that the journey opening to them could be anything but a very happy one.

The church's interior was a vision in pink. Carnations of that color were everywhere, in happy profusion, because that is the bride's favorite tint. Palms and other plants lent a varying touch of green to relieve the pinkness here and there.

The marriage ceremony was accompanied by a nuptial mass, at 10 a. m., at which Monsignor O'Grady officiated. The music was rendered by Miss Kate Phelan, organist of the church. The bride, that whom New Brunswick has reared no more charming maiden, wore a gown of white duchess satin, trimmed with baby Irish, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. She entered the church escorted by her brother, Edward McCormick, who gave her away. Her cousin, Miss Katherine McCormick, of College avenue, was maid of honor, and was very charming in a gown of white net over white tulle, set off by a white hat with plumes.

The bridesmaids were Miss Madeline Daly, of East Orange, Miss Mary Ryan, of Elizabeth, Miss Margaret McManus, of Newark. They were attired in white.

MOSZOWSKI UP NOW

ON SUICIDE CHARGE

Pole Who Was Charged With Bigamy Now Declared to Have Tried to Hang Himself.

Joe Moszowski, arrested Sunday on a charge of threats and a vague suspicion of bigamy entertained by his wife, is in jail again, this time because his wife and two sturdy Poles declared they had found him hanging from a nail on his own belt.

Mrs. Moszowski declared that Joe had buckled the belt around his neck in their house, on Somerset street, near Bethany. His struggles attracted her attention, and, with the other men, she released Joe and had him taken to the police station.

Neighbors say that Joe's married life has not been very happy and he seemed despondent enough to make an attempt on his own life. The story that he has another wife in Europe is believed to have been trumped up.

Moszowski's recognition on the threats charge was dismissed by Recorder Watson this morning and he was committed to jail on that charge.

Justice Hayter this morning took a complaint against the man charging him with assaulting the woman. According to the story told to Justice Hayter, the would-be suicide threatened to kill the woman before he hung himself. He had matches in most of his pockets and this gave rise to the story that he had intended to set fire to the house. The man formerly worked on a Hebrew farm, near Milltown, and was known as Joe.

PRIZE FIGHT TO-NIGHT

MAYOR HEUSTIS, OF MILLTOWN, TELLS SHERIFF THAT MILL HAS BEEN ARRANGED TO TAKE PLACE IN PARSONS' GROVE.

Mayor Heustis, of Milltown, and Borough Attorney Edward W. Hicks visited Sheriff Church this morning and the Mayor notified the Sheriff that he had information that some New Brunswick sports proposed to pull off a prize fight in Parsons' Grove this evening.

One of the principals, according to the Milltown officials' information, is to be a well known New Brunswick boxer in the lightweight class, and his opponent is an out-of-town brawler.

Prosecutor Berdine was notified, and it was decided to have officers on hand to break up the "mill" if it starts. In case the promoters decide to have it elsewhere, detectives will be busy watching to trail them up, and make arrests if found advisable.

GROOM TRIED FOR SHOOTING MANN

Lincoln Row of an April Sunday

Aired in Court this Morning—

Prosecutor Objected to Having a Loaded Gun Introduced in Evidence.

John Groom, of this city, was placed on trial this morning on an indictment charging him with assault with intent to kill upon John Mann, of New Market, at Lincoln, April 29. Groom, shot Mann in the groin, so that he was in a precarious condition for nearly two months.

The defense put up by Freeman Woodbridge, counsel for Groom, is self-defense. A determined effort was made to prove that Groom, ejected from the Neuberger house at Lincoln, was set upon by Neuberger, Mann, and a man named McLean, had fired to save himself from serious injury.

Warden Rogers brought the revolver found upon Groom into court. It was one of the "vest pocket" type, with a barrel only an inch long, designed for close-range shooting. Rogers handed it to Prosecutor Berdine at the opening of the trial.

"Is it loaded?" asked the Prosecutor. "There's a bullet in it somewhere," answered the juror, but it can't do any damage.

"Well, I'm not going to take any chances," said the State's attorney. "There must be an officer somewhere who can get the bullets out. Try it on Hayter."

So Judge Hayter and Warden Rogers retired with the weapon and presently returned in triumph with the revolver and one cartridge.

The following jury was called: Samuel Lawrence, Thomas Fauriol, R. M. Beckman, Isaac L. Davidson, W. D. Clawson, Wesley Kempton, Henry Bacher, Sr., Charles Jackson, W. W. Stults, James Allen, Frederick Van Deusen, George MacDowell.

Dr. John Robinson, of Bound Brook, was the first witness called. He said he had been summoned to Lincoln on April 29 to attend to John Mann, whom he found on the porch of the Neuberger house with a bullet wound in his left groin. The ball had been deflected from the right leg. The femoral vein in the left leg had been severed and there were severe hemorrhages. Dr. Robinson considered that Mann's life had been endangered by the wound.

Mann was placed upon the stand. He said he was a bridge and structural iron worker, living at New Market. On April 29 he went for a walk with McLean and wound up at Neuberger's house at noon, where they stayed for dinner. He had met Neuberger at his work. He had while they were eating dinner Groom and a woman named Calloway came into the house and Neuberger got into a fight with Groom in the hallway. Mann went out and separated them, collared Groom and pushed him from the front porch. As Groom stood upon the ground, according to the witness, he drew his revolver and said, "I've got you now!" and fired.

On cross-examination Mann denied that he had started to attack Groom after pushing him from the porch, or that Groom warned him to stand back before he fired. He said that he had one drink of whiskey in Neuberger's house that Sunday morning.

Mann said that after the shot was fired he grappled with Groom and they fell to the ground together. Mann is evidently still suffering from his wound, and walks about by the aid of a cane. He has not been able to go to work since the shooting.

HALF A MILLION
VOTES RECORDED

Candidate Lawrence Makes a Jump To-day To-Morrow Will Be Grand Rally Day.

It is not yet one month since the contest for the five Home News vacation trips, each worth $100, was begun, yet in that time over 550,000 votes have been cast for the various contestants, but it is more than likely this enormous vote will be more than doubled before the contest ends on July 20.

The proprietor of the Home News made the offer for the vacation trips for two reasons—to increase the circulation of the paper by getting contestants to canvass for subscribers and to give five people a vacation that they shall remember as long as they live and appreciate all the more because they earned it, or their friends earned it by working for them.

TO COAX THE RESERVE VOTE.

Here are two quiet little canners to bring in the votes obtained or held in reserve before nine o'clock Friday evening, June 29:

For every yearly subscriber, cash in advance, 2,000 EXTRA votes.
For every hundred coupons cut from the Home News 100 EXTRA votes. Coupons must be in on or before 9 o'clock Friday evening.

SPECIAL OFFER FOR ONE WEEK.

So successful has been the offer of extra votes allowed in the voting contest conducted by the Home News recently that a brand new offer is inaugurated for the week ending June 30. The inducement will be 200 extra votes for every NEW three months subscription secured and paid for in advance. This will make 400 votes for every NEW three months subscription turned into this office any time before 9 p. m. of June 30.

New subscriptions will count just as much at the beginning as at the end of the week, so there's no advantage in holding back these new subscriptions.

No matter how far up or down a contestant is in the race a few new subscribers will give him or her a big boost, or 400 votes for each new subscriber obtained and turned in with the cash.

The vote at noon was as follows:
Miss Mary Craven.....117,391
Miss Edward Lawrence.....107,391

CHARGED $8 A MONTH
FOR FREE HOSPITAL

Esther Freinberg Arrested To-day for Obtaining Free Under False Pretences.

Esther Freinberg, a Hungarian woman, was lodged in jail to-day on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences. Another Hungarian woman alleged that her sister had been taken to a New York hospital by Esther for tuberculosis treatment, and Esther was collecting $8 a month for the sick sister's treatment.

The sister in this city became suspicious after Esther had taken her to visit the hospital, and when she wanted to go again Esther put her off and would not give her the address. The woman complained to the police here.

Detective Dunn ascertained that the sick woman was in the charity hospital on Blackwells Island, and had not received a cent from Esther, neither had the hospital authorities. Esther had collected in all about $40.

Esther was arrested and the Recorder committed her for obtaining money under false pretences. Later to-day she was released on bail.

TRENTON RED MEN

The team came on the New Brunswick fast line on their own special car. Upon their arrival here they were met by a large delegation of the three local tribes, headed by Past Sachem George H. Miller, of Abander Tribe, No. 12, and were escorted to the tribal wigwam of On-on-on-Moo Tribe, No. 20, in Elks' Hall, where they performed the adoption ceremony upon a class of thirteen pale-faces.

The initiation was given in a faultless manner, and at the conclusion, as the pale movements in their famous drill, the large assemblage of Red Men broke forth in loud and continuous applause.

The team and the Red Men from Trenton who accompanied them were afterward banqueted in a most royal manner by On-on-on-Moo Tribe. The Trenton "Injuns" arrived home at 2 a. m.

M'CANN CASE UPSETS LAW POLICE FOUGHT FOR

Supreme Court Declares Unconstitutional the Law Permitting Appeals From Common Council Rulings—A Big Victory for City Attorney Hicks.

After five years of fighting for a law which would permit a review by a Supreme Court justice of the proceedings of police boards and police commissions in cases where police officers are charged with offenses and found guilty, the Superior Police Officers' Association of the State has met with defeat at the hands of the Supreme Court, although the law for which they strove for years was passed by the Legislature last winter and only recently signed by Governor Stokes. Supreme Court Justice Reed, in an opinion just handed down in the Randall McCann case, declares this law unconstitutional, because, he says, "it is an attempt to confer upon a statutory tribunal the prerogative right of the Supreme Court to review by certiorari the proceedings of the municipal board."

COULDN'T ESCAPE RICE

Mr. and Mrs. Monigin, who were married in St. Peter's Church this morning, had a hard time in getting away from their friends when they started for the 2:29 train. The couple tried to skip out through Otto Schuck's building, next door, but met a crowd of friends at the door. They then tried to get through the back way and come out on Albany street, but a posse of friends were stationed on Albany street to head off the couple if they tried to escape. In fact, the whole block was detailed with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Monigin had to submit with good grace to what was in store for them, and gracefully took all the showers of rice and confetti which descended upon their heads.
