

THREE FIGHT FOR SOUTH AMBOY JOBS

SOUTH AMBOY, Jan. 21.—This city is promised a further taste of legal proceedings, inasmuch as former City Attorney F. M. P. Pearce, John Connors and Ira B. Martine have instituted quo warranto proceedings against the officials who have succeeded them in the offices from which they have been ousted.

South Amboy has the distinction of having two street commissioners, two health officers, in fact, all officers that served under the last Democratic administration. Suits having been instituted, the end is looked forward to with a great deal of interest. So far there has been no conflict between the warring forces, although the new and old cover the same territory daily. The streets especially get a double cleaning, and South Amboy is dubbed the "Spotless Town."

TRENTON, Jan. 21.—Papers were filed in the Supreme Court here today in three quo warranto suits brought to test the title to as many offices in the city of South Amboy. One suit is that of Frederick M. P. Pearce against Francis P. Coan, this fight being over the office of city solicitor.

Pearce served two terms, and on January 1, 1913, was re-elected for two years. On January 1 of this year the South Amboy Common Council passed a resolution declaring the office vacant, and then Coan was chosen for this office. Pearce charges that he was illegally ousted from the office.

Another suit involves the office of water commissioner. Ira Bliss Martin claiming he has been illegally ousted and Daniel Donlin elected to succeed him.

In the third suit John Connors claims that he was unlawfully put out of the office of street commissioner, and he brings action against Richard B. Hillman, who was elected to succeed him.

PHILIP SPOONER TO ENTER OPERA?

The Musical Courier, which came out today, contains the following interesting item about Philip Spooner, who appears in Brunswick Hall to-morrow night:

A friend of Philip Spooner, the young concert tenor who has been meeting with such success during his second season, hinted strangely to a representative of the Musical Courier that another season would find Spooner in opera. As near as can be learned, Mr. Spooner still desires to keep up his concert tours, which, in the estimation of a certain impresario, would not be practicable. If the young tenor does enter the opera field, for which he has for some years been preparing under the direction of Signor Carbone, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera Company, his repertoire should embrace "Faust," "Rigoletto," "Traviata," "Il Barbiere de Seville," "L'Elisir d'Amore," "Romeo and Juliet" and several other operas, which he could sing in the language in which each was written, or in English, as the occasion demanded.

When Mr. Spooner was asked about the rumor, he said: "I do not feel that I can talk about the matter at present. I shall announce my plans for next season later."

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

The election of officers took place, resulting as follows: President, C. W. Waddington; secretary, J. Milton Brindle; treasurer, Adam Wagner. Dr. Forney was elected health inspector.

A communication was received asking that a delegate be appointed to attend the local and State Board of Health meeting to be held in Trenton on Jan. 23d and 24th, but no definite action was taken.

Several small bills were ordered paid.

On the two former occasions his heroic performances were in the rescue of a prominent man in South Milltown.

William Schwendemann, of Washington avenue, also broke through the ice yesterday, but he was not far distant from the shore at the time and had little trouble to get out himself.

White Hens Turn Black.

In an endeavor to protect his highly prized stock of white leghorn chickens from the chilly winter blasts during the past week, William Becker of Milltown, placed an oil stove in his chicken coop which for several nights proved very effective but as he approached the henry on Sunday morning, very much to his surprise he not only discovered that a number of his fowls had turned black but that they would lay forever. They were dead. A draught evidently caused the flames to rise higher and higher and the stove smoked so as to cause the flames to suffocate a good portion of his stock.

Dunellen.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN TOWN

DUNELLEN, Jan. 21.—The local Board of Trade convened for its regular monthly meeting in the borough hall last evening with a good representation of its members on hand.

After the reading and the approving of the minutes of the previous meeting Edward H. Dean moved for action upon eleven applications for membership. The applications were all acted favorably upon and the eleven new members of the Board are John E. Enright, John J. Quinn, J. E. Dix, Leslie Latham, Michael T. Moynihan, Harry S. Fitzworth, Charles H. English, Frank H. Fuller, S. M. Kookoy and W. A. Houghtaling.

The committee appointed to call upon J. Alfred Wilson in regard to his letter of resignation reported that Mr. Wilson had reconsidered his decision (Applause.)

A communication was read from the New Jersey Housing Association inviting the members of the board to attend its second annual conference, at Trenton on January 22. The object of this association is to improve the housing conditions of the State. The communication was ordered received and placed on file.

President Dusel informed the meeting that he had a lengthy communication from the Mayor and City Government of New Brunswick, requesting the co-operation of the board in the matter of keeping the Raritan canal open. Although the meeting was informed that in a recent decision the New Jersey Public Utility Commission had ordered the Pennsylvania Railroad to keep the canal open and there was therefore no necessity of the board taking any action upon the matter, W. H. Colburn nevertheless appointed a committee of one to take the lengthy communication home, digest it and make a report at the next meeting.

A communication was received from William B. Lundy, of Plainfield calling the Board's attention to an enclosed petition, signed by over fifty holders of property in the neighborhood where Albert Rajotte, the brickman is doing extensive excavating for the purpose of obtaining clay to make brick. The petitioners ask the co-operation of the board in the matter of at least compelling Rajotte to refill the excavations made to the level of the ground around them and if possible restraining him altogether from doing any further excavating, upon the ground that the excavations made will, in summer months breed disease.

The communication and petition were ordered referred to the local Board of Health.

In their report, the Executive Committee recommended the formation of two new committees, viz., the grievance and an entertainment. These recommendations were acted favorably upon by the board. The executive committee also informed the meeting that the matter of amending section No. 11 of the constitution had been held over by them for further consideration.

W. H. Colburn took the floor and called the attention of the meeting to the fact that a large number of unlicensed dogs, of the vagabond type, are running through our streets. It was regularly moved and seconded that the council be notified to abate the same.

President Dusel tendered W. P. Deering in behalf of the Board a framed set of resolutions of appreciation. In acceptance Mr. Deering, said in part: "Gentlemen, I wish to thank you from the depths of my heart for this token of appreciation. Some occasions occur in the life of an average man when he imagines that he is something and this is one of those occasions for me."

Considerable disappointment was felt over the inability of Councilman Earle M. Jones, to deliver his fifteen minute talk on "Electric Lighting of the Municipality," on account of his being unable to secure satisfactory data to date. Mr. Jones will deliver this talk at the February meeting of the Board.

In answering an inquiry of Edward H. Dean as to how the sewerage matter is progressing, Secretary W. P. Deering said: "The next thing on the program in the sewerage matter is the acquiring of the Jarling farm for the disposal plant of the three municipalities and the acquiring of right of way land along the foot of the mountains. Mr. Jarling has asked the exorbitant price of $90,000 for his farm and the right of eminent domain, will in all probability have to be resorted to in order to procure the farm and the minute we start to proceed along that course Middlesex Borough will commence fighting the project."

At a business meeting held in the chapel of the Presbyterian Church on last evening, by the Christian Endeavor society of that church the following officers were elected for the year: President, Theo. W. Day; vice-president, Geo. I. Agar Jr.; Treasurer, C. T. Voorhees; Rec. Secretary, C. Dorothy Cameron; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Luella Stricker.
