NEW HOSPITAL PROJECT.

That Middlesex with its admirable situation and low death rate offers exceptional advantages for the founding of a hospital for convalescents is apparent and we trust the James A. Moore Memorial Home, which reference was made in yesterday's news columns, will locate in this county.

There is an abundance of fine most country for the proposed hospital and the experience of those in charge of the Parker Memorial Home, which is a charity of the same character, is all in favor of bringing the new hospital to this county. We are confident George A. Veleman, who represents the Moore Estate, will do his part to make the project.

When we are old we regret it is too late to live as we proposed—Fope.

OPTIMISM A CIVIC FACTOR.

In all communities one of the most potent factors for the success and prosperity of the individual and the body politic is the habit of enthusiastically looking on the bright side of things and the possession of a firm belief that in no municipality of the country is life more worth living or the advantages presented greater. As in all other matters an abiding faith, coupled with hard work and a desire to hasten rather than loiter, is the cardinal feature of achievement.

Despite the strenuous efforts of the cabalistic hordes and pessimists who, sed to relate, are always with us, there are many things which seem to point the way to a general revival of business and building along all lines, and, despite the general exasperation of business caused by the great European struggle and its consequent increase in the number of the unemployed, the fact should not be lost sight of that few cities the size of New Brunswick have been so fortunate, general and abiding prosperity being manifest on nearly every side by hundreds of comfortable homes and streets filled with well-dressed, apparently contented people. There is no lack of confidence in the future prosperity of the city and its environs, as can be attested by the number of building operations in progress, as well as the real estate agents for purposes of improvement which are being placed on record almost daily. Every building operation or improvement to property is a certain index of the faith of the people in the future, and, granting this to be a criterion, New Brunswick's future should be exceeding bright.

To make success doubly certain and in possession more greatly prized, let us all work together for the common good and refrain from pessimism. If we cannot show our faith in our city in bricks and mortar, let us use no opportunity, either at home or abroad, in letting the world know that we abide in one of the best places on the surface of the globe, where natural advantages, an intelligent populace, and true business and civic enterprise and stick-to-itiveness contribute to an example that the other municipalities will do well to follow.

As we grow old we become both more foolish and more wise—Boche-foursuit.

GETTING VOTERS TO THE POLLS.

The old problem of getting voters to the polls is brought up again in view of the special municipal election scheduled for next Tuesday. The towns that are lined up for independent rule in this city realize that their greatest chance for defeat lies in the tendency of the voter who is not controlled by the machine politician, to remain away from the polls.

For the first time in New Brunswick's history we find candidates openly advertising for poll workers, thus giving another recognition of the special efforts that are required to get men to the polls. The truth is that while the average American citizen regards the ballot as a priceless privilege, to be defended even with blood, he is very careless about availing himself of it, and the officer who has the opportunity, the more difficult he is to take advantage of it. So the question of device means to induce voters to exercise their right of suffrage is constantly recurring. All sorts of plans have been suggested, ranging from disfranchisement from failure to vote down to drastic remedies to be applied by the criminal law. A new suggestion comes from Pennsylvania, where a bill has been offered in the Legislature not to punish the stay-at-home voter, but to reward the one who casts the ballot. This plan calls for giving the when he registers and a similar rebate on his tax bill when he casts his ballot.

However, it may be gravely questioned that better conditions will result from paying citizens to perform a public duty. The man who casts his ballot merely because he will receive a dollar or two for doing so is not likely to give much thought to the candidates from whom he will make his selection.

Nearly to get voters to the polls is not sufficient, no matter what expedient is employed to attain that end. The real object should be to induce them to vote intelligently when they do cast their ballots. And here is the crux of the entire situation. A very common reason why a high vote is cast is that many voters fear they cannot vote intelligently. They have not the time—because of the temptation to study the problems presented, and they are too self-respecting to cast ballots haphazard.

Money spent in a campaign of education is well spent. Universal and intelligent voting is the ideal condition, and the questions at issue in the coming battle are not so complex but that every citizen may grasp them. First and foremost—they are the principles which the city shall have a clean, progressive government, or whether it shall restore former conditions by turning the town over to unscrupulous men. Take this plan and the voters will respond in mass.

Senator Colgate Out for Governor

Senator Austin Colgate, of Essex yesterday formally announced his candidacy for the Governorship next year.

"I am a candidate for the Republican nomination at the primary to be held in September, 1916," he said. "I have a New Jersey is one that I have a people seem to fill in case the State is to be divided in its political matters. The primaries are open to all and it is the privilege of any good Republican to compete for the nomination. The assurance of support that I have received thus far have certainly been very encouraging."

Anti-Injunction Bill Defeated

The House of Assembly at Trenton, Wednesday, defeated the Quinn bill, which would prohibit the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes.

This measure came up for final passage Tuesday night, but after a short debate action on it was postponed until Wednesday. There was a great deal of opposition to the measure, although Mr. Quinn, who is the president of the New Jersey Federation of Labor, made a hard fight for the bill. The final vote was 27 to 12.

Bound Brook Man Chosen by Bank

At the meeting of the directors of the Elizabeth Trust Company in the bank building, 11th Street and Elizabeth Avenue, Elizabeth, Wednesday afternoon, Frederick Correll, of Bound Brook, was elected secretary and treasurer of the corporation to succeed the late Edward R. Hawkins, who died Friday, March 15. The new secretary goes to the bank highly recommended.

Mr. Correll was born in Bound Brook. He has been engaged in the banking business since his boyhood, his first position being with the First National Bank, of Bound Brook. There he remained for six years, and since that time he has held positions of increasing responsibility with a number of other banking institutions.

Leaving the Bound Brook institution, Mr. Correll went to the Manufacturers Trust Company, of Manhattan, in 1907, and in 1909 he became a member of the Borough National Bank of North Plainfield. A year later this bank was merged into the State Trust Company, of Plainfield, of which Mr. Correll was secretary and treasurer for three years.

He remained there until 1913, shortly after which he has been temporarily in charge of different financial institutions where required. In management was required at short notice last year he assumed a prominent part of the National Bank of Cuba, and the Trust Company of Cuba, at Havana.

Roosevelt Probe is Again Adjourned

The special Assembly investigation into the question of device means to induce voters to exercise their right of suffrage is constantly recurring. All sorts of plans have been suggested, ranging from disfranchisement from failure to vote down to drastic remedies to be applied by the criminal law. A new suggestion comes from Pennsylvania, where a bill has been offered in the Legislature not to punish the stay-at-home voter, but to reward the one who casts the ballot. To The Voters:

In reply to many inquiries as to whether I am still in the race for Commissioner, I want to say I am, and will appreciate your support.

I note there have been general platforms submitted to the people, and some very good suggestions made. I have no platform except a business platform, which I consider the best. My life has been a business life, and I am convinced we do not want a political, but a good, sound business administration.

I was in the wholesale grocery business for 12 years. In the past for 8 years, and 12 years with a large manufacturing business in New York City which necessitated my traveling a great deal and meeting all kinds and conditions of men. This had tendency to broaden my ideas considerably. And I believe our city can best be managed on good business principles. I am at present entirely out of business, and can give my time and undivided attention to the duties of Commissioner. I think this is more than many of the candidates can say. And I consider this is one of the necessary things to get results. Another is to always remember that we are the servants of the people who pay the taxes and are entitled to our best efforts. If my ideas meet your approval, please use your vote for me, and choose if you can, or several choices, or three choices, if you cannot do better.

GILES H. HULLFISH
A Vote For

GILES H. HULLFISH means a vote for clean city government and personal equitability, so that every citizen shall pay his proper (and no more) proportion.

1—Run every department honestly, economically and efficiently.
2—Conserve water supply, purify water, increase water pressure.
3—Enforce all ordinances equitably. If a man pays a license, give him all he pays for. Permit no man to abuse his license to detriment of other more honorable men in the same business.

This platform might be extended indefinitely, but if these points are secured we will have a bigger and better city.

New Brunswick is a large corporation. It will require men of experience and ability to secure best results.

I have the experience and ability, and will, if elected, devote my whole time to the job.

To The Citizens of New Brunswick, N. J.:

As a candidate for Commissioner of this City I ask your support at the coming election, and I promise you that if elected I will at All Times do my best to give New Brunswick an Honest and Economical administration. If elected I will bring into office the knowledge and experience gained through my strict attention to business for the past thirty (30) years.

I am not only interested in the mercantile business of the city but in its real estate as well, having for a number of years been a heavy taxpayer.

I am not a politician, nor am I for "clique, faction or combination."

I know the value of a dollar and know when I am getting a one hundred cent value, and I pledge myself to see that the city gets the same.

I have been a resident of New Brunswick for over twenty (20) years, and if elected will endeavor to fill the office to the best of my ability, without fear or favor, and Will Devote My Entire Time to the Office.
