

ORGANIZING
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Amorous Meeting of Organization Committee... To Recommend Dues of $15 a Year—Charter Members.

The organization committee of the Chamber of Commerce had an interesting meeting last night, and thrashed out in a session that lasted till half after ten the various problems that confronted them. The constitution and by-laws of most chambers of commerce look very much alike. In the present instance those of the Newark Board of Trade were followed, more particularly in framing the dues that are to govern New Brunswick's Chamber of Commerce.

Among the members of the committee—George A. Viehmann, Dr. A. L. Smith, W. H. C. Jackson, John C. Matlack, P. Bunyon, Judge E. W. Hicks, A. J. Henry, Henry Landsberg, W. R. Reed, George Lyons, Louis Wolfson and Harry G. Parker, were present. Each of the members had his own views to express, but there was remarkable harmony on all propositions till the question of dues to the board was brought up. It then became apparent that there was a difference of opinion, not so much as to the amount, but as to methods. All agreed that for the board to accomplish anything it must have the necessary income, but they differed in their opinions as to whether the money could be raised in dues that were smaller and the membership larger or if the membership were smaller and the dues larger.

The question was finally passed for a time being, and when the other questions had been agreed upon the question of dues was returned to.

Dues to Be $15.

The majority of the committee favored the dues about $15 a year, and only one of those who advocated this, the Chamber of Commerce needed more money for any purpose he was thinking at any time to give an extra dollar. Then some one got up and said that the money needed he would be willing to give $100, another said he would give $200, another $100, and so on. At last the committee found that it talked itself into unanimity, and was decided to recommend to the general body that $15 a year be the rate of assessment per member.

Constitution to Be Printed.

The committee is going to have the constitution and by-laws they have decided to recommend to the next meeting printed. Copies will be given to all who are likely to become members, and they will be asked to sign an application. All who sign this will get in on the first meeting and will become charter members of the Chamber of Commerce. There will be another meeting of the organization committee the first week of next week, and it is expected that the committee will be able to call a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce for some time about the end of next week.

Membership Committee.

The membership committee of the Chamber of Commerce, consisting of P. J. W. H. C. Jackson, Harry Marks, George Lyons and Philip Weigel, had a meeting last evening and decided upon the governing the membership, and drew up lists of those who would be likely to become members.

In the typewritten list, which they prepared there are 335 names, and the committee does not expect that all of these will become members.

THE GREATEST SHOW
IS HERE AGAIN

Ringlings and the Country Visitors Own the Town
To-day—Thousands Saw the Street Parade
And the Afternoon Performance.

Arising like some phantom city out of the night several acres of canvas were spread out and erected into tents by the time the average citizen was awake this morning.

With its roster of 1,268 persons and hundreds of animals, varying from the trained dog to the elephant and camel, Ringlings Brothers' circus swept into New Brunswick shortly after midnight in its train of eighty-five coaches.

By a system working like a big clock the several trains were unloaded and started on their way toward the show grounds before dawn.

By 8 o'clock everything was in readiness for the exhibition that began with a parade. That fascinating air of mystery the proverbial small-boy attaches to the circus drew hundreds of youngsters to the show grounds and there they remained until the close of the afternoon until the great canvas tops were undulating in the breeze and everything was in readiness for the big show.

"Where does the circus man come from?" How do they catch the menagerie animals? "Is the clown an ordinary being in the winter time?" and

"Oh, who originated pink lemonade?" were expressions frequently heard.

In Ringlings Brothers' winter quarters at the home of the show, in Baraboo, Wis., the work of organizing this year's circus began early in December. The show has been on the road but one month and New Brunswick will see the performers and the latest novelties in their youth.

According to advance reports the circus is the greatest exhibition in the world. The afternoon performance began at 2 o'clock and the night show begins at 8 o'clock.

The doors open an hour before the performance, to allow an inspection of the menagerie. There are 375 performers on this year's bill. Of these fully 250 are foreigners appearing in America for the first time.

Among the more prominent features are the Arthur Saxton trio of strong men from Germany, the Schuman performing horses from the Circus Schuman at Berlin, the double acrobatic duo, the mobile light, the telephoning elephants, Alexander Patti, who walks on his hands (CONTINUED ON PAGE 2).

4-YEAR OLD
CHILD DRUNK
ON THE STREET

METUCHEN COLORED WOMAN GIVES HER BABY BEER TO DRINK AND CAUSES SHOCKING SPECTACLE—
POLICE TOOK PARTY IN CHARGE.

One of the most disgusting exhibitions seen in New Brunswick in a long time was witnessed by persons living along Hiram street this afternoon about 1.30 o'clock. A pretty little colored girl, Lena Green, with her mother and a party of eight or ten other negroes, came along Hiram street toward Nelson.

They stopped at Cusick's Brunswick Hotel, and the little girl, who had been acting as hilariously as the others in the party, which is saying a good deal, began to show more and more signs of being intoxicated. She threw up her arms and staggered all over the sidewalk, while the members of the party laughed uproariously. Sometimes she would fall down, but would get up again and continue her drunken behavior.

A crowd began to gather, and as the child, who it was found later was only four years old, began to show symptoms of collapse, some one telephoned to the station house, and Sergeant Clinton, in plain clothes, soon appeared upon the scene and took the mother and her child to the station house.

The mother of the child, who was partially intoxicated herself, made a great commotion when Sergeant Clinton got her and weeping implored that she be let go. She started to make the child walk up the street, but the little one could hardly take a step without falling. The sergeant made her carry the little one.

At the station the woman said she was Anna Louise Green, of Metuchen, and had come here with a party of friends, including her sister, to see the circus parade.

She said they went into the Brunswick Hotel and took the child with them. No drink was ordered for the baby, but the two women let her sip from their glasses, and the woman said:

"She hadn't had any breakfast, and we thought it would be good for her," said the mother.

Dr. E. I. Cronk looked at the child and found that she was hopelessly drunk. The doctor read the woman a pretty good lecture, which wasn't entirely of medical terms.

"That child ought to be drinking milk, not beer," said the doctor. "You stand a pretty good chance of going to State prison for doing anything like that."

The party had left the hotel when the child showed the effects of the liquor, but went back in the barroom and were there when the sergeant came along.

Chief O'Connell visited the place, but was unable to get much information of what had occurred. He went after the others of the party and got the other woman and a man. Patrolman Wilcox took them to headquarters as witnesses.

The whole outfit was pretty hilarious, and seemed to find much amusement in the child's pitiful condition. When the police took a hand their joy suddenly changed to grief.

The party was held at the station to await the disposition of Recorder Houghton. The police are also investigating the circumstances of the child getting the beer. It is a pretty serious thing to sell intoxicants to minors and the Excise commission would probably consider it ground for refusing a license.

According to the woman's story, however, the gardener, who waited on them, was not aware that anything was given to the child.

The second couple arrested gave the name of Jackson, the woman being the sister of the Green woman. Mrs. Jackson was pretty well intoxicated.

BRUTALITY OF AMBOY MURDER

George Ves, Who Killed His Wife Monday Morning,
Makes Full Confession—Had
Been Married Less Than a
Year—Man Not Crazy, Says
Detective Hoffman.

Further investigation by the authorities reveal the utter brutality of the murder of Mrs. Ves by her husband, George Ves, Monday morning at Perth Amboy.

Detectives Hoffman and Peltier who have been working on the case, said that Ves had no reason for killing his wife except that she refused to live with him. There is no ground for the charge of unfaithfulness they say.

Mrs. Ves had been married before and has a child eight years of age by her former husband. She married Geo. Ves at Franklin Furnace, on July 11, 1908. The couple came to Perth Amboy last December, where they lived together until about a month ago, when they had a disagreement and separated.

Mrs. Ves went to live with Mrs. John Budna on Keene street and the husband went to Rochester, N. Y., where he obtained work in a brick yard.

It seems that the man returned last Friday and tried to persuade Mrs. Ves to again live with him.

When he invited her to take a walk with him on Monday morning she evidently feared the consequences as she refused to go. She had been living in a tenement house, and the rest of the story has been told of how he walked with her to the woods and then killed her and let her body lie there 24 hours and then gave himself up to the police.

Detective Hoffman took Isaac Vanderveer, the photographer, to Perth Amboy, with him yesterday and pictures were taken of the murderer, his victim and various scenes connected with the crime.

The murderer shot his victim three times, the first time in the abdomen and the other two shots were in the back of the neck evidently firing after she fell.

A pathetic feature of the case is that Mrs. Ves would have become a mother in another month's time.

Detective Hoffman says that Ves is not at all crazy but is on the contrary rather above the average of intelligence. The murderer has signed a confession in the full knowledge that it will be used against him. He will be brought to the jail to-day.

Farmers James Parsons and John Edward Clark Will Meet
Saturday to Decide Important
Question—Who Will Challenge the Winner?

"Yes," said Farmer James M. Parsons, of Milltown, assertively and somewhat aggressively this morning, in the hearing of John Edward Clark, of Pleasantville, "there isn't a bit of doubt that I raise the finest asparagus in Middlesex county."

Now Mr. Clark has an asparagus patch he thinks quite a lot of, and he took exception to Farmer James' remarks and made some of his own decidedly disparaging to the Milltown patch.

"You don't know what asparagus is out there," said Farmer Edward. "It makes me laugh to hear little bits of grass called asparagus."

"Huh, I throw away asparagus better than you bring to market, because I wouldn't have the nerve to try to sell it."

"Maybe you'd like to prove you raise better than I do."

So they agreed to each produce a sample of asparagus at Mansion House at 10 a. m. Saturday. Proprietor Jean Brivoli, who is an expert in everything in the eating line, is to be umpire and will declare the owner of the best bunch of asparagus champion of Middlesex county.

To make it interesting the owner of the worst bunch is to buy the other a new hat.

Interest in the competition is running high and applications for reserved seats are already pouring in upon Mr. Brivoli. It is expected that there will be several challenges for the winner.

Both Messrs. Parsons and Clark were observed to go home soon after the contest was arranged and to get out on the asparagus beds with sprinkling pots to make the "grass" grow faster.

STATE TAX
BOARD HERE

The State Board of Equalization of Taxes met at the court house this morning for the purpose of considering appeals from the decisions of the county board. There were present Major Carl Lenz, of Newark, and Assemblyman Henry C. Frick, of Vincentown.

The first case heard was the appeal of the borough of Highland Park from the decision of the local board that it had no right to tax the water pipe of the city of New Brunswick. Judge E. W. Hicks argued the case for the borough and City Attorney McKean appeared for the city. The argument was purely on legal grounds and President Lenz said the board would announce its decision next week.

Col. Nelson T. Dungan appeared to appeal from the assessments of $5,000 and $55,000 on the plants of the Atlantic Terra Cotta Co. at Perth Amboy. The city was represented by Attorney Honimann.

By agreement of the attorneys the assessment on the personal property of the two plants was reduced in the case of the Standard from $8,000 to $10,000, on the assessment of the other plant was cut in half or to $325.00.

HOME NEWS
COUPONS FROM

Each Day Some Absent Friend
The Home News Follows
Mails Back the Coupon.

The value and popularity of New Brunswick's leading paper, the Home News, and the sterling merits of the big book contest, is more than demonstrated by the fact that every mail brings Home News coupons from afar off. A fat contribution came in yesterday, with a certain contestant for the library carefully and plainly written clear across the "tickets." It is a nice thing to feel that even if some of our citizens do have to bid our fair city adieu, that they cannot very well efface from memories storehouse happy reminiscences when fate decrees they shall take up their abode elsewhere.

Every voter should watch the contest news closely from now on, for the contest man will spring many little surprises, every one of which will be valuable for you to know. The last few weeks is going to be a vigorous campaign for every one who has a spark of ginger left in them, and you will have to be awake every moment or you will be caught napping. Subscriptions to the Home News keep coming in and it looks as though the big spurt has begun already. We hardly expect such a large work until the last remaining days begin to fade away. It's right, though, "Never put off for the morrow what can be done to-day." If you do it to-day, the morrow is left for something else. If you want a good cigar and you feel you are too far away from Geo.

FORT ADVOCATED A LIFE TENURE

TRENTON, May 19.—The controversy of several weeks ago as to what Governor Fort really said in a Chicago speech about the life tenure ideas of Alexander Hamilton has been settled. This is what he said:

"Hamilton declared in the convention which adopted our Constitution that it would be better to give to the executive as life tenure because he said, there was more danger in a fixed term than in a permanent position. The foresight of Hamilton is apparent to the thoughtful observer of to-day."

It will be remembered that the Governor was criticised harshly for his advocacy of the Hamiltonian scheme of government. He said that he had not endorsed life tenure for executives, and there were editorial apologies. In the heat of an extensive oration on a patriotic subject a man says things sometimes that he would not enunciate in a calm breath.
